

POWDERLUX™

AGING WITHOUT THE WAITING®

POWDERLUX: SEASON 2

From the inventor

As a seasoned metal finisher from Hawai'i, I set out to reimagine patina—capturing its aged elegance without all the headaches to traditional methods.

POWDERLUX™ is for artists, builders and designers who believe innovation lies in simplifying the process to amplify the outcome.

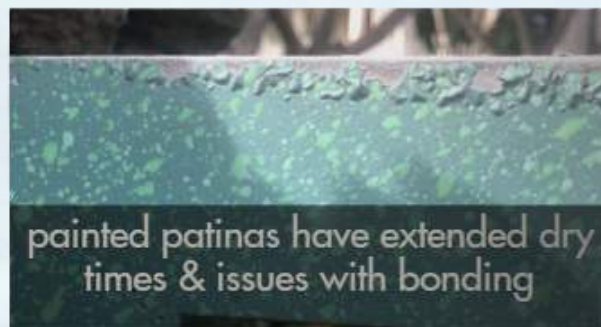

Our finishes deliver the rich, nuanced beauty of time-worn metals—through durable, VOC-free outdoor rated powder coatings.

The following pages invites the reader to rethink patina—not just as a finish, but as a philosophy:

timeless aesthetics, zero compromise

Let our certified global applicators help transform your next project into a lasting statement.

Ross Scott - Master Coater

The aged surfaces you want. performance you need.

For centuries, patina has symbolized timeless beauty—a natural evolution of surface and substance that brings a sense of heritage to modern objects. But the methods to achieve these finishes haven't aged nearly as well.

Traditional patina techniques are slow, inconsistent, and often harmful. They rely on acids, paints, and volatile organic compounds (VOCs) that pose risks to both people and the environment. Replicating aged effects requires labor-intensive processes that can't easily scale and often demand costly, less sustainable premium metals like copper, brass, and bronze.

Worse yet, natural patinas are unpredictable. Because they depend on environmental conditions—humidity, exposure, touch—they degrade unevenly. Finishes may flake, tarnish, or lose their richness. Painted simulations, meanwhile, struggle with adhesion and rarely offer the realism designers crave.

Today's world demands timeless style without the wait. Spaces are conceived and built faster, yet still expect the emotional depth of old-world craftsmanship. Clients want prestige, but they also want performance.

POWDERLUX™ delivers the art of patina—distressed, oxidized, time-worn effects—reimagined for modern application. Our powder coating effects mimic the nuanced beauty of traditional and living finishes without the complexity, toxicity, or degradation.

Ready from day one, these coatings offer visual consistency, lasting protection, and unmatched luxury. This is patina for the new era: clean, scalable, sustainable—the art of aged metal, perfected.
